Members have the advantage of accessing more Smithing training materials than free players. With the right methods and slightly increased learning time, members can make money while kuzmining. Tables that show profit compared to the experience made by counsing certain items, see the Smithing/Smithing tables. While some methods are cheaper than others, Smithing is usually either very expensive or very slow, depending on whether you buy or collect materials. Useful Elements (edited source editing) Blacksmith's outfit (edit the source of editing) Wearing blacksmithing components gives a percentage increase in the amount of Smithing experience, oneed. In the set five pieces: hats, breastdress, leggings, gloves and boots. Components of blacksmithing equipment can be won by the Treasure Hunter. It can also be purchased in the workshop of artisans for 50% respect per unit. If all parts of the set are worn, the player receives an additional set bonus of 1% bonus experience. The blacksmith's helmet can be modified by superstructuring a blacksmith's helmet to create a modified blacksmith's helmet that offers 3 teleports to the artisans' workshop daily. Urns (edited source editing) urns can be used to gain additional experience during training. With it in the inventory urns are filled, as the player smelts ore. Only basic experience benefits expect to fill the urn. Full urns can be teleported to gain additional experience, equivalent to 20% of Smithing's experience when filling the urn. Only one urn is filled at a time, although players can own a total of 10 full urns. If a player owns 10 full smelting urns, they must teleport at least one away before they can fill more urns. The urns are traded only in their non-management (nr) form. In order to use the smelting urn, the player must add a fire mine, which makes the urn untraded and styling. The urns are filled only when smelted, they are not filled when the blacksmith bars on the anvil. Tortol incense sticks edit edit source Each level of potency of tortol incense sticks provides a 0.5% increase in the base of XP gain. The potency level will increase every 10 minutes and reach its maximum at 4 (2% to basic XP). Overload consumes 6 sticks, but instantly provides maximum potency. Hammer-thrones/added crystal hammers (edit the source of editing) Players with at least 22nd level Invention can learn how to create hammer-thrones. This also opens up the possibility of creating enlarged crystal hammers with ammirators on crystal hammers. The gizmo tool can be added to the enlarged hammer to give it a benefit. The following perks can be useful for players training Smithing: Recommended Perk Icons Benefits Benefits Effect Tinker 4 8% chance to make double progress. The fast 4 Heat is lost twice as fast, but the progress has earned 20% faster. Using an enlarged crystal hammer costs no more than 0.31 divine charges from the player's charge per second. This cost can be reduced by researching the improvement of the charge drain or by adding an effective shake to the item. Brawl gloves (Smithing) edit the source of editing Smithing fight gloves, can be obtained from retribution, Chaos Elementary and rare drop tables, provide a steady source of bonus-smithing experience based on charges. Outside of wilderness, gloves provide an extra 50% experience, but when used anywhere at or above the level of 47 Wilderness, the gloves give an extra 300% bonus experience instead. Even if they will conflict with the blacksmith set, they still provide more experience. Since gloves depend on charges, they are best used with run swords or dragon shields for the greatest experience (the latter can be done in the desert for very high experience rates, but extremely risky); any of the options are not feasible, instead you can use protean bars.
